This is the beginning of America. It seems that a unique American culture developed around the East Coast during the 17th century.

It is the 17th century. Sweden was in the process of expanding and developing American colonies with the aid of Finnish and German troops. Ultimately, they created New Sweden (currently Delaware). Unfortunately, they overdid it a bit and meddled into Dutch territory, infuriating the Dutch troops. In the end, the Dutch beat up Sweden and Finland, took over their land and houses and kicked them out of America.

[I Don't Care, As Long As I Can Beat Up France]

When England and France were fighting over American territory, the War of the Austrian Succession and Seven Years War were going on at the same time. England just wanted to beat up France so he would side with France's enemies no matter what was at stake.

Battle for the New World They Grow Up So Fast!

And so, I managed to defeat France and become the big brother (D) of this kid.

Not come back!

But taking care of him is going to be a big responsibility.

I'm sure he's going to face his own share of troubles, too.

But I vow to stay by his side and support him from now on.

(One got along on his own.)

England gave Americans everything from taxes, religious freedom and free trade. This is one of the reasons why America developed a reputation as "The land of the free." As different countries came together and left their mark on America, it developed its own unique culture and economy. It was not long before America's industrial power rivaled that of England. As an added note, England only had control over America for about 10 to 20 years in total.

In America, people sometimes say: "I just saw your wife running over to Nevada." It's intended as a burn, as it's infamously easy to get a divorce in Nevada.

Don't Give Up, Canada! The Eight Are Heroll

Canada

An unfortunate nation who is constantly in America's shadow. Canada is laid-back, kind and honest, but easily forgotten all the same. Many of the Europeans perceive Canada as "a nation to retire in."

America

Canada's cause of misfortune.

Cuba

Cuba is a brave and energetic bro who loves ice cream. Unfortunately, that love has caused him to pack on a few extra pounds. He and America hate each other so much that they aren't on speaking terms anymore.

Kumajiro-san

A cute bear. Even though he's always hanging around Canada, he has a tough time remembering him. This is only fair since Canada always gets Kumajiro's name wrong.

Warning Since Canada does not stand out at all, there is a chance that he may disappear without notice.

Don't Give Up, Canada!
I'm Going To Assert Myself!

[Maple]

A common Canadian plant that is also the national flower. Its future is in danger due to global warming. If Canada didn't have maple, then... no, I don't even want to think about that.

Don't Give Up, Canada!
We're Cheering for You, Canada!

[The future of tomorrow is right now!]
Sensational words of wisdom.

Very ethical Canada's open door policy led to a heavy influx of immigrants and exchange students from Korea and China. It's not uncommon to see Korean flags and shops in numerous Canadian cities like Toronto and Vancouver. Apparently it's a sort of status symbol for Koreans to go to English-speaking nations as foreign exchange students.

Canadian Time

Beware of Canada's laid-back attitude. Even entering the country can take forever. No matter how busy a place is, Canadians will always take their lunch and coffee breaks. Be prepared...bring a book!

(No way Jose!)

Who is Jose? Nobody knows, but that doesn't stop Americans from saying this.

Don't Give Up, Canada!
Once Canada, Always Canada

Don't Give Up, Canada!
Just Put Your Mind to It!

Three hours
later...

Hang up and
give me back
the phone I bought you!

And also—

You're always jumping the gun...

You're selfish
and fake...

And stupid!

Let him off the hook already!

[Unless that about Japan and Canada-ian]

There was a song titled "Mr. Roboto" that was a big hit in Canada some time ago. In the chorus, popular Japanese words are used:
"Dama arigato, J' done done-!" As a result, Canadians thought the song was popular in Japan as well.

Suit yourself!
I'm not your handyman!

First I just thought you
could do it!
I'll never get farther from your grasp!

W-what did you say?

At least I'm impulsive and determined!

You stupid
glutton!

Basically,
you're so stubborn
and old-fashioned... and boring!

You're
a total apathetic!

And
you're slow!

Pushing
your weight around everywhere!

I won't break up your spine
anymore!

And stop
telling me
what to do!

You're so arrogant!

Properties, too!

Really using a pushover.

Face the truth!

And...
and...
uh...

You eat
hamburgers
all the time...

You buy vacation cars
over the internet...

Then you're trying to push it off to me!

What, are you understanding
or something?
